Expert conversations on climate, energy transition, and sustainable business

Podcasts are a great way to build background knowledge during your commute or downtime. All of the shows below are free and available on Apple Podcasts, Spotify, and other major platforms.

[PODCAST] Climate One

<https://www.climateone.org/>

A weekly podcast and public radio program from The Commonwealth Club. Engages leading experts, policymakers, and activists across all dimensions of the climate crisis — from individual action to systemic change. Highly accessible, broad in scope, and actively publishing new episodes in 2026.

[PODCAST] Sustainability Defined

<https://sustainabilitydefined.com/>

Defines sustainability one topic and one expert interview at a time, spanning seven sectors: Energy, Cities, Natural Environment, Transportation, Business, Policy, and Social. Praised by college professors for engaging student audiences.

■ New hosts Nethra Rajendran and Cecilia Rios took over from original hosts Jay Siegel and Scott Breen. Still actively publishing through 2026.

[PODCAST] The Energy Transition Show with Chris Nelder

<https://energytransitionshow.com/>

In-depth, fact-based exploration of the global shift from fossil fuels to renewables. Hosted by veteran energy analyst Chris Nelder with expert guests covering solar, wind, nuclear, EVs, grid modernization, and climate policy. Widely used by energy professionals and recommended by Dartmouth College.

■ Full episodes are now behind a subscription on their website; free versions remain available on all major podcast platforms (Apple, Spotify, etc.).

[PODCAST] All In — The Sustainable Business Podcast

<https://podcasts.apple.com/us/podcast/all-in-the-sustainable-business-podcast/id1567742816>

Features three leading sustainability thinkers — Chris Coulter, David Grayson, and Mark Lee — in conversation with innovators on the evolving corporate sustainability agenda. Great for understanding the business case for carbon reduction.
